

Mr Glen Hancox

Glen is a professional actor, facilitator and director of ACTReal. He works in the corporate and medical space delivering truly unique workshops that focus on clinical role plays and scenarios relevant to the client's industry.

Glen has recently developed an approach to learning around having crucial conversations, which often lead to disharmony, misunderstandings and difficulties in the workplace. Over the past 10 years, Glen has gained considerable experience playing the role of a doctor in examination preparation courses and clinical workshops.

Glen brings his skills and unique expertise to this workshop, addressing the key themes of crucial conversations, and how they may play out with regards doctor's help seeking, as well as breaking bad news. Together with Dr Helen Schultz, he will run through four key scenarios that will drive lively discussion and generate ideas around changes that can be made to improve doctor's well being and minimise adverse outcomes such as suicide.
